One Of The Oldest Airports In The U.S., Charlotte Douglas International Airport In North Carolina, Is Now 88 Years Old

Posted in Charlotte January 23, 2023 by Carolyn Harmon

Established in 1935, the Charlotte Douglas International Airport (CLT) is one of the oldest airports in the U.S. Ranked among the world's busiest airports, it averages 1,424 arrivals and departures and 118,636 people traveling through CLT each day. A record-breaking year came in 2019 when CLT had more than 50.2 million passengers for an average of 137,449 people daily. And in 2021, CLT grew to the sixth busiest airport in the U.S., serving 43 million folks that year. Let's take a look into the success of one of the oldest airports in the U.S.

Gresham Smith Aviation Architect Brad Sucher Named to Airport Business Magazine's 40 Under 40

Dedicated to Enhancing the Passenger Experience, Sucher Has Taken the Lead Role on Several Expansive Projects

RICHMOND, Va. – Gresham Smith is proud to announce that Senior Aviation Architect Brad Sucher, AIA, LEED AP, has been selected for Airport Business Magazine's 40 Under 40 Class of 2021.

Since joining the firm in 2011, Sucher has been significantly involved with some of Gresham Smith's most expansive airport modernization projects. Serving as the architect of record for Gresham Smith's work at Fort Lauderdale – Hollywood International Airport, Sucher has managed the expansion and modernization of two terminals, as well as various planning projects, which have included more than $1 billion in construction costs and spanned at years. At Asheville Regional Airport, Sucher has been leading efforts to double the size of the airport through a vertical expansion, as well as a complete rebrand to find an identity reflective of the local region.

“Brad is an instrumental leader, relationship builder and thoughtful planner, and I am thrilled that he has been selected for this honor,” said Aviation Executive Vice President Wilson Rayfield, AIA, NCARB, LEED AP. “His dedication to using exceptional architectural design to enhance the passenger experience and support airport operations is unmatched. I am glad to have him as part of our team, and look forward to seeing him continue to excel in this profession.”

Sucher takes part in the American Association of Airport Executives Young Professionals Society, where he was the young professional track host at the AAAE/ACC design symposium and mentored students from Hampton University. He also presented at the 2022 North Carolina Aviation conference about utilizing technology to help process passengers in terminal buildings.

Sucher is a Michigan native who grew up in Detroit. He also attended the University of Detroit, where he earned his Master of Architecture degree.
